

Master of Arts (MA) Political Science

Degree Program

- The MA in Political Science is a general post-baccalaureate degree that gives students a broad understanding of political science through intensive study of several fields within the discipline.
- The MA in Political Science is useful for students who are already in or planning on a career in politics, public policy or secondary education. It is useful for students who are considering doctoral education. It is particularly valuable for students who are simply interested in learning more about subjects in political science that interest them.
- A minimum of 27 credit hours of coursework, of which 12 credit hours must be in core courses, is required. Students may choose from one of six specializations. In addition, one of the following exit projects is required: a six-hour thesis, a six-hour internship, or six hours of additional course work and an approved paper, for a total program plan of 33 credit hours.

Emphasis Areas

- American Politics
- Comparative Politics
- International Politics
- Political Process and Behavior
- Public Administration and Public Policy
- Urban and Regional Politics.
